

Produce More Than You Consume

A great goal to strive towards each and every day!

The Path to Authenticity

Perhaps the more that we consume, the less authentic we become. In order to remain in a state of production, you must disconnect from the noise, the chatter, and the timeline. Create your own world, your own timeline, and make your own things.

Instead of watching videos, make videos. Instead of reading, start writing.

I'm beginning to think that my goal in life is to merely be a producer. Whatever I'm producing, it doesn't really matter. The point is that I'm producing more than I am consuming.

Maybe that would make the world a better place?